

1. Functional Requirements what the system should do—the features and functions that enable users to interact with the system effectively

- a. User Management
- b. Job Posting and Management
- c. Application Management
- d. Admin Management
- e. Notifications
- f. Resume and Document Management

2. Non-Functional Requirements define how the system should perform, focusing on aspects like usability, security, and performance.

- Usability
- Scalability
- Security
- Reliability
- Compliance
- Responsive Design

on database side Tables

- Users Table
- Applicant_Profile or candidate Table
- Recruiter_Profile or employer Table
- Job_Postings Table
- Applications Table
- Notifications Table